

Faith story ideas for those close to heaven

You might have a friend or family member that knows death is around the corner. It's a sad time, but it's also a great opportunity to share faith. Think of how faith could be shared with future generations (like grandkids who might not have had a good chance to know them). Here are a few ideas or things that could be recorded on video and uploaded to YouTube for future sharing

- Make a video message to be played for someone's future confirmation about how Christ was active in your life at that point.
- Make a video message that could be played for someone's future wedding that shared how Christ was active throughout your marriage
- Share the number one faith lesson you'd like to share to_____
- Share a video message to be played for someone entering high school or college about how Christ sustained you through school
- Share a video message to be played for someone struggling with sickness or death
- Share a video message to be played for someone who just did something great in life. Share about a success that God gave you in your life and how you responded to it.

The list goes on... The basic idea is to share how Jesus worked in your life.
